Embezzlement Charge Is Filed Against Tom E. Dugan

ADMISSION HE TOOK FUNDS AND FAKED HOLDUP

Confession By City Collector To Officers of Highway Patrol

SAM R. SPRECHER
TAKEN IN CUSTODY

Bond For Accused Collector Is Set Today
at $5,000

Tom E. Dugan, 35 year old city collector, who was found in a dazed condition lying on the floor of his office Sunday evening, and who told officers he had been slugged and robbed by two men whom he said started a fire in the records in the vault, admitted to highway patrol officers late Wednesday evening that he had embezzled money from the office, had set fire to records and reported a "fake holdup" to cover up his loss. The amount taken over a period of about eighteen months, he said, is between $5,000 and $6,000.

After Dugan's confession Samuel R. Sprecher, his partner in the insurance business, was taken in custody and booked for investigation.

Dugan's confession was made in the office of the highway patrol in Kansas City, where he had been taken early in the afternoon by Troopers Paul E. Corl and L. V. Estes of this city. They returned to Sedalia with him about 10:30 o'clock that night and he was turned over to Sheriff W. L. Marlin, at the county jail.

It was about midnight that Sprecher was picked up at his home, 605 West Fifth street by Troopers Estes and Deputy Sheriff Clyde Coppers and he was taken to the city jail.

Charge Filed
A charge of embezzlement of $300 was filed by the prosecuting attorney, L. J. Harned in the justice court of Bell Hutchinson a few minutes before noon today. This amount was specifically set forth in the confession as having been taken in June, 1936, and as there were no other dates given for other amounts the prosecuting attorney selected this one on which to file a charge.

Dugan was taken before Judge Hutchinson early this afternoon and arraigned. His bond was placed at $5,000, but it had not been arranged for at mid-afternoon.

The prosecuting attorney said he would consider filing an arson charge later.

Sprecher Held For Investigation
Officers stated that no action will be taken towards filing a charge against Sam Sprecher until late this afternoon or evening, as it is possible to hold him, booked for investigation at least twenty-four hours.

Highway Patrol Takes Charge

Because of the unusual features in connection with the story told by Dugan Sunday evening, officers were handicapped in making an investigation. They all knew and liked "Tommy" so well that it was hard to believe the story was a hoax, but at the same time they couldn't believe the happenings as related had really taken place. John J. O'Brien, chief of police and Desk Sergeant Harrell rushed to Dugan's assistance when he called for help Sunday afternoon, and to them, and firemen who were called he told the story of the alleged robbery and fire.

Believing it would relieve the situation and that there could be no criticism of anything that might be done Mayor Julian H. Bagby asked the highway patrol to take charge of the investigation. Police officers and Dugan were both members of the city's official family and by placing the matter in the hands of the highway patrol it relieved the police officers of an unpleasant duty.

Wednesday morning Dugan went to the office where the auditors opened the vault and started the work of checking the books and records. Highway patrolmen were present, as were other officers.

During the morning Troopers Corl and Estes asked "Tommy" if they could talk to him some time during the day. He consented, and about 1 o'clock they asked him to get in the car so they could talk. They started west and when about as far as LaMonte informed Dugan they were taking him to Kansas City to the office of the highway pa-

"ASSURANCE" IS NEED DECLARES W. S. KNUDSEN

Cold Reception Accorded
Planned Production
For Industry

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—President William E. Knudsen of General Motors, appearing before the senate's special unemployment committee, said today his "one hope" for immediate stabilization of work was that "the people generally will feel a little more confident of the future."

"We need more assurance all the way down the line about this year and the year after," said the president of the corporation which laid off 30,000 men January 1 because of a sales decline during November and December.

Knudsen declared the decline was the severest in his company's history. He blamed it not on car prices but on a view held by the "average man" that "work is going to be slack."

"Even if he has the means," the motor magnate continued, "the average man won't permit

ECONOMY DRIVE IS STARTED BY HOUSE GROUP

General Motors Presi-

ment Committee

SAYS LAYOFF DUE
DROP IN CAR SALES

Expresses Optimism In Termining Recession
But Temporary

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The house appropriations committee began an economy drive today by recommending appropriation of $1,414,818,515 to finance more than 30 independent governmental agencies for the coming fiscal year—a saving of $118,538,800 over the current year.

The measure, first of the regular annual supply bills, slashed $3,732,000 off the budget bureau's estimates, most of the cut being borne by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Rejecting the authority's request for $2,898,000 to start construction of the $112,000,000 flood control dam at Gilbertville, Ky., the committee allotted only $285,000 for "project investigations" on this undertaking. The bill carries a total of $37,087,000 for the TVA plus a $4,000,000 contract authorization.

The bulk of the saving over this year's expenditures resulted from a $123,669,000 cut in funds for the civilian conservation corps and reductions of $37,914,500 for the veterans' administration, and $23,845,077 for the railroad retirement board.

Increases of $70,559,322 for the social security board; $1,036,500 for the interstate commerce commission; $1,852,000 for the civil service retirement fund, and $385,000 for the national labor relations board, offset the economies.

Criticize Expenditures
In reporting the bill to the house the committee included a sharply worded criticism of governmental publicity expenditures, the primary purpose of which, it said, "is to build up a public demand for the services of the agency issuing the publicity."

The drastic cut in the C. C. C. funds conformed directly to the budget bureau's recommendations and would give the agency $226,331,000 for the next fiscal year in contrast to the $350,000,000 for the current year.

The committee said the slash would mean elimination of 412 C. C. C. camps and reduction of enrollees from 315,000 to 250,000. Final decision has not been made, the report said, as to what camps will be abandoned.

The committee denied a labor relations board request for $20,000 to add 12 employees to its Washington staff, but approved an increase of $142,293 for 31 additional field employees, described as necessary because of the impetus given the agency's work by the supreme court's validation of the Wagner act.

An outlay of $93,000,000 for the veterans' administration won committee approval.

It includes $4,500,000 for construction of additional hospital facilities but no specific projects were listed.

The committee said the item for military and naval insurance amounting to $40,055,000 represented a reduction of $48,697,000 under this year's appropriation, adding "the peak loan under this legislation has now been passed."

Other items in the bill include $449,910 for maintenance of the White House and grounds, a cut of about $61,000; civil service commission $77,504,000; communications commission $1,745,000; federal power commission $1,500,000; federal trade commission $2,180,700; securities and exchange commission, $3,907,000; social security board, $329,300,000 and rural electrification administration $31,652,000.

Signed Confession of T. E. Dugan

Kansas City, Missouri
January 5, 1937

I, T. E. Dugan, of my own free will make this statement in the office of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, 5117 E. 31st St., Kansas City, Missouri, in the presence of Sergeant T. E. Whitecotton, troopers Paul E. Corl and L. V. Estes without threats or promises having been made me.

I have held the office of collector for the city of Sedalia for the past five and one half years—being within four months of completing my third two year term in said office.

Shortly after my last election, namely, in June of 1936, I took the sum of three hundred dollars out of city funds to apply on the purchase of an insurance agency. This sum, taken only as a loan, with the firm conviction that same would be paid back within a reasonable length of time, was the beginning of a series of sums which would at the present time aggregate the total of between five and six thousand dollars.

Knowing that what started out to be a loan with full assurance of being able to place back in the account, in later months turned out to be an outright theft, and also knowing that I had no means of my own with which to replace the stolen amounts, I, and I, alone, reported a robbery of my office which did not occur, and in an attempt to cover the loss, set fire to the vault in my office on January 2nd, 1938, called the police and reported a robbery, the results of which have already become known to the public.

On Wednesday, Jan. 5, 1938, in the office of Sergeant Whitecotton of the Missouri State Highway patrol, Trooper Corl presented all the details of the happening to me in such a way, and so substantiated by cold facts that I saw it was useless to make an attempt to deny the charges.

I wish to make the statement that none of this money was used by myself for personal purchases at any time whatsoever, but was used in an attempt to establish a business by which I might make a living, and make a restitution at a later date.

PLAN TO REVISE TAX SYSTEM HAS BEEN PREPARED

Sub-Committee Has a Few Matters of Policy
To Decide

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—A house tax sub-committee completed today its plan for revising the tax system, including the widely criticized undistributed profits and capital gains taxes.

Chairman Vinson (D-Ky.) said one or two matters of policy still might have to be threshed out, but that members would begin immediately to put their recommendations into the form of a report.

The report may be submitted to the full house ways and means committee by the middle of next week and probably will be used as a basis for hearings.

The last decision of the sub-committee was that corporations controlled by a few individuals, and used, Vinson said, as a device to permit these individuals to escape payment of high surtaxes on their incomes should be deprived almost entirely of the benefits of other companies would receive from revision of the undistributed profits tax.

These closely held corporations, Vinson said, retain profits instead of paying them out in dividends to stockholders who would have to pay more surtaxes if they did receive dividends.

About 500 to 1,000 of these closely held corporations, he said, are included in the approximately 200,000 corporations which have taxable income.

The subcommittee decided further, he added, to place a flat 16 per cent rate on the undistributed portion of the income of mutual investment companies.

These companies now are, and still would be, required to distribute 90 per cent for their earnings. Under present law they pay no normal income tax, but are subject to the undistributed profits tax, Vinson said.

Under the program worked out by the subcommittee, the bulk of the corporations with taxable income would pay a normal income tax of 12½ to 16 per cent if their income did not exceed $25,000 and a 16 to 20 per cent tax graduated according to the proportion of income distributed, when their income fell in higher brackets.

Another group of intermediate corporations would pay intermediate rates—more than those proposed for the $25,000 firms but less than those for the large companies.

BANDITS KILL MESSENGER IN A $25,000 HOLDUP

GUTHRIE, Ky., Jan. 6.—(P)—Police kept a sharp vigil along the Kentucky-Tennessee border today for three masked bandits who fatally machine-gunned a Negro post office messenger, wounded Police Chief C. M. Sherrod, and sped away with a mail bag containing $25,000.

Felled by a bullet through the head as he reached for his pistol, the Negro, Arthur Mimms, 62, died in a Clarksville, Tenn. hospital.

Sherrod, shot in both legs, was recovering today.

NEW PRESIDENT PRESIDES OVER KIWANIS CLUB

Guy Callendar Has Rail
Officials Guests—Talk
By Don Middleton

(Pictures on Page 8)

The 1938 Kiwanis series of regular Thursday noonday luncheon meetings was launched at the Hotel Bothwell with Guy Callendar, the club's new president, presiding. A full attendance heard the opening remarks of Kiwanian Ed Mullaley, program chairman for the month of January on the outlook of the year for the club and its members.

Don Middleton, chairman of the educational committee then took charge and carried on a most interesting program of functions of the Kiwanis club as prescribed by the rules of Kiwanis International, which was highly educational to every member, particularly the new members of the club. The speaker's program was augmented by specific facts presented by various committee chairmen who will be in charge during the coming 12 months.

President Callendar had as his guests O. A. Garber, chief of the mechanical offices of the Missouri Pacific railroad from St. Louis and F. R. Hosack, mechanical superintendent, also of St. Louis.

The meeting was closed with the singing of "I've Been Working on the Railroad" in honor of President Callendar's guests.

LOOK TO NAVAL EXPANSION POLICY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Admiral William D. Leahy said today President Roosevelt's forthcoming message on naval policy was "apt to be" a call for basic expansion of the fleet—the fifth shipbuilding program undertaken since the world war.

This would be in addition to a call for funds to begin work immediately on one group of new warships, added Leahy, who was among naval officials discussing the message with Mr. Roosevelt yesterday.

NAVY PLANE WITH SEVEN MISSING

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 6.—Captain Alva D. Bernhard, chief of staff, navy aircraft scouting force, announced today a navy bombing plane with seven men aboard had been missing since yesterday.

Captain Bernhard revealed that the big patrol bomber had been missing since 5 p. m. yesterday, "when we lost radio contact with it."

Sharply Worded Criti-

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—President Roosevelt's suggestions for planned industrial production based on consumer demand estimated months in advance got a cold reception today from the head of one of the nation's biggest corporations.

The proposal, informally advanced by the President this week as a possible platform for co-operation between government and business, was put directly to President William Knudsen of General Motors by Chairman Byrnes (D-SC) of the senate's special unemployment committee.

Knudsen recalled that his company had laid off 30,000 men January 1. He said this was necessitated by a drop in sales during November and December. This drop, he declared, was the most precipitous in the company's history.

Then he said:

"I don't think there is a way in God's world to forecast a 50 per cent drop in business in three weeks, such as we had in December."

From Capital Hill Knudsen went to the White House with John D. Biggers, director of the unemployment census, for a brief talk with President Roosevelt.

Secretary Morgenthau said he found no indication that additional relief appropriations would be necessary for the remainder of this fiscal year.

Watch Developments

He emphasized, however, that he and Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, were watching developments on a day to day basis. Mr. Roosevelt told congress in his budget message yesterday more money would be needed unless business perked up.

The treasury secretary also revealed that the treasury study of temporary flights of foreign capital was inactive. He said experts had been unable to work out any sensible method of checking foreign capital movements either in or out of the country. Such movements may vitally affect the national economy.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) proposed an investigation of profit sharing by employers with employees. His resolution said maintenance of the profits system was essential to preservation of capitalism and the exploration of available means for "extending the direct benefits of the profit system to the largest possible number of citizens is highly desirable and important."

Despite President Roosevelt's request for drastic curtailment of highway expenditures Chairman Cartwright (D-Okla.) of the house roads committee introduced a bill for $467,000,000 which, if it were enacted, probably would throw the proposed budget further out of balance.

Reaction on Budget

Mr. Roosevelt's budget estimates for relief and farm benefits encountered congressional opposition today despite favorable Democratic reaction to his message as a whole.

THREE NEWSPAPERS IN CONSOLIDATION

The three newspapers of Benton county, the Warsaw Times, The Warsaw Enterprise and the Cole Camp Courier, have consolidated into one publishing company to be known as the Benton Publishing Co., of which E. M. White, veteran newspaper man, is president with the owners of the other two newspapers officers as follows: V. A. Lunquist, secretary and Edwin Wilkens, treasurer.

Under the name of The Benton County Guide, the first issue under the consolidation will be published Friday morning, as a weekly newspaper.

The new company will have offices in Warsaw, county seat of Benton county and also at Cole Camp.

The consolidation make a total of 163 years of public service as a newspaper institution and is one of the outstanding consolidation in a number of years and probably the first of its kind to be made in this state, whereby all of the county papers have joined together as one.

HENRY A. SHEPHERD LOSES A FINGER IN HAND INJURY

Henry A. Shepherd, 1206 South Massachusetts avenue, a linotype operator for the Sedalia Democrat, suffered an injury to his left hand while at work this morning, necessitating the amputation of his fore finger. The hand was caught in the linotype machine and the pain was so severe and Mr. Shepherd so weakened, that after receiving emergency treatment at the office given by a physician he was taken to the Bothwell hospital in an ambulance.

Physicians removed the finger. He remained at the hospital during the afternoon.

ADDRESS TONIGHT BY I. T. BODE ON CONSERVATION

Meeting For Farmers and Sportsmen To Be at The Court House

Irwin T. Bode, recently appointed director of the state conservation commission, will talk on the activities of the state toward the preservation of wild life in Missouri tonight in the assembly room of the court house.

The meeting is under the sponsorship of the Pettis County Conservation Club. W. P. Stanley, chairman of the club will preside at the meeting which will begin at seven-thirty o'clock.

Landowners, sportsmen and farmers interested in the preservation of Missouri's wild life are invited to hear Mr. Bode who will outline the steps that have been taken to protect the game and fish of this state and the laws which will preserve them.

The new Missouri conservation program depends on the cooperation of sportsmen and landowners and for this reason Mr. Bode will speak on fish and game management, protection and enforcement of the conservation laws which are of particular interest to the landowners.

The meeting here is part of a state-wide campaign to awaken interest in the new conservation program and will precede a meeting of conservation supporters in Jefferson City later in the month.

Wednesday Bode announced plans for organization of a "protection division" of the state commission to enforce game laws and present the aims of the commission to the public.

Thirty "conservation agents" working under four district supervisors will begin work January 15 and will replace the fifty wardens the commission now employs.

"The reduction is made necessary by an accumulation of unpaid bills we inherited from the old department," Bode said. "However, I am convinced the thirty agents working under our new setup, will give as efficient service as fifty men formerly did."

"But our aid is to give more efficient service and, as soon as finances permit, we plan to increase the force. The commission has already taken steps to set up an eligibility list from which future agents will be hired."

Men from the ranks of the wardens were named on the list of agents. They were not required to take examinations but an investigation of their records was made to select the most fit.

Bode was appointed director of conservation for Missouri on November 15. Before taking up his duties he was associated with the wild-life activities extension service of the United States Department of Agriculture, the Bureau of Biological Survey and for three years was conservation director of the state of Iowa.

The Pettis county conservation club was organized September 3 and since then has been active in placing birds on properties around Sedalia.

AIR RAID ON THE
CITY OF HANKOW

Japanese Continue Drive
For Railway Lines In Shantung Province

By JAMES A. MILLS

HANKOW, Jan. 6.—(P)—Fifty Chinese noncombatants were killed or wounded today when 30 Japanese bombing planes heavily bombed the airfields at Hankow and Wuchang, across the Yangtze.

Chinese officers suggested the raid was in reprisal for yesterday's foray by Chinese bombing planes on the Japanese airbase at Wuhu where six Japanese planes were reported destroyed. Today's was the second Japanese raid on this provincial capital of China this week.

The Japanese airmen attempted to destroy the radio station at Hankow, but failed to hit it. Several women and children were killed or wounded in that vicinity.

HANKOW, Jan. 6.—The manpower of this nation of 400,000,000 persons was being recruited today on a national mobilization basis for an unrelenting war against Japan.

All cities and towns outside Japanese-occupied areas swarmed with troops. In some cities recruits outnumbered civilians. By spring China expects to have 80 full divisions in the field.

Guiding the mobilization of men money and munitions was Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, vested with full power over military and civil life of China under a government reorganized on a war basis.

Under Chiang, Dr. H. H. Kung—Chiang's brother-in-law and China's generalissimo of finance—was placed in charge of economic affairs and industries. Last summer Dr. Kung toured European capitals enlisting credit and munitions.

General Ho Ying-Chin, minister of war, veteran of the 1911 and 1913 revolutions and graduate of the Japanese military college, was named chief of the general staff.

Officials insisted the government had enough money and arms for a long war.

Report Heavy Fighting

(Chinese communiques declared heavy fighting was in progress near Hangchow, capital of Chekiang province. Japanese countered with assertions that all was quiet in the Hangchow area and that they still held the city.)

UNDESIREGUESTS

At Florida resorts is a demand for "guest-proof" homes, according to Frederick Van Ryn in the Redbook magazine. Hostesses are weary of self-invited guests who take all sorts of liberties and who have the gall to entertain their own friends. In Florida "are as many spongers and 'professional guests' as there are in London."

The only protection against uninvited, undesired guests is a home too small to accommodate them, a two-car garage instead of a ten-car garage. Florida hotels suffer because there are so many uninvited guests in private homes. Free-room-and-board, it appears, is easy to accomplish at Florida resorts. The undesired guest moves in and stays as long as he or she please. It sounds incredible, but Mr. Van Ryn vouches for the truth of it.

In the middle of January a hostess announced to her "guests" that she would have to leave for the North on a matter of the utmost importance and would not be able to return until some time in the spring. Did her "guests" leave? They did not. "They simply said they were terribly sorry for me, and that they would see to it that the butler wouldn't steal too much liquor in my absence. I had to carry out my bluff and spend six miserable weeks in snowbound New York while my darling friends were basking in the sunshine."

This recital may inspire some summer hostesses in other parts of the country to come forward and speak up, for it has been said that those mountain regions in summer attract uninvited guests. Time is when the guests put forward a plea that they have been unable to find hotel accommodations, clerks, assuring them that there are no vacant rooms.

Spongers and "moochers," and the like, are always with them who entertain. A year or so ago a summer hostess said that an automobile load descended on her at a seashore resort and made light of the crowded conditions, declaring that they would fare very well on the table and chairs in the dining room!

MIGHTY GOOD MEDICINE

Watermelons, it is now asserted, have a certain therapeutic value in the treatment of kidney disease. At last we have a medicine which is not only easy, but a joy, to take.

Imagine the smile on a patient's face when the doc writes out his prescription: "An ice-cold slice, to be taken every four hours."

The huge green Alabama berries are certainly the biggest pills in medical history but they are bound to go down the quickest of all.

We don't know who first discovered watermelons, but he makes Columbus look like a piker. Chris found a lot of land but the other fellow gave us a ruby paradise with an emerald ring around it.

Farmers, we have just learned, often bury watermelons in the fall to keep them from freezing. That news just about decides us to go treasure hunting tonight.

Watermelon isn't ordinary grub by a long shot—it's really food for the soul. We have never seen anyone eating watermelon who wasn't smiling and happy as a lark.

One of the things we could never understand is how the great poets ever managed to overlook one of Mother Nature's grandest gifts—His Majesty, King Watermelon—and instead wasted their peans of praise on such ordinary matters as roses, moonlight and a lady's limpid lambs!

PETROLEUM'S MANY USES

More than 1,750,000,000 barrels of petroleum products annually are consumed by world industries, transportation, farms and homes. Although representing only 6.5 per cent of the world's total population, the people of the United States account for 62 per cent of total consumption. These statements come from the American Petroleum Institute.

Gasoline is currently the product of largest utilization. It fuels nearly 40,000,000 motor vehicles as well as planes, tractors, stationary engines and other plants. "Low gasoline prices have given the United States one motor vehicle to every five persons as compared with the world average of one to 172."

Second only to gasoline in volume of consumption is fuel oil, source of power and heat. "Here again, low prices have encouraged utilization, the United States consuming, both for domestic and industrial purposes, nearly 60 per cent of the more than 700,000,000 barrels the world uses annually."

Notwithstanding the wholesale consumption of petroleum products, the reserves today are estimated to be much greater than they were estimated to have been in 1914. In that year the reserves were estimated to be 5,500,000,000 barrels; since then 10,000,000,000 barrels have been produced. The estimate of the reserves this year is 13,000,000,000 barrels.

In course of time the world's petroleum supplies will be brought to the brink of exhaustion, but before then other fuels will have been made available for the world's needs. Petroleum has contributed to world progress. It has made possible the automobile and the airplane. It is used in the propulsion of the swift Diesel-powered streamlined railroad trains. If petroleum failed at this time the world would be seriously inconvenienced.

How in the world can the Japanese expect us to recognize Manchukuo and their newer "state," Mongokuo, when we don't even know how to pronounce them?

An old house near Sevenoaks, England, is said to contain 365 rooms. House cleaning in that place must be in the nature of a WPA project.

With so many gloomy predictions for 1938 appearing in the newspapers it would seem the luckiest Christmas gift receivers were those who got nothing but handkerchiefs.

Things may not be so good, but they have been a lot worse. Just a couple of centuries ago, a hungry man, in these parts, had to bag his breakfast with a gun—if he wasn't scalped first.

FROM FILES OF THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

FORTY YEARS AGO

Referring to the appointment of the Sedalia Military band as the band for the Second Regiment, National Guard of Missouri, the Clinton Democrat says in part: "The Sedalia band has been very anxious to secure the place and Lieut. Col. DeMuth's recent visit to Carthage was to see about the matter. The band has twenty-five members and is a first-class organization and has existed for over 20 years. With a bank account of $1,400 it is peculiarly fitted for duty in the National Guard."

The Ladies Aid Society of the First M. E. church has elected the following officers: President, Mrs. J. M. Offield; first vice president, Mrs. C. C. Clay; second vice president, Mrs. R. F. Cain; treasurer, Mrs. Ira T. Bronson; secretary, Miss Della Inch.

WASHINGTON—Charley West, the boy who is supposed to grease the President's legislative program through Congress, is looking for a new official job.

His official job is Under Secretary of the Interior, (congressional back-slapping is only unofficial), and the reason he wants to leave it is a row with Secretary of the Interior Ickes.

This row was so scorching that for a time the two men didn't speak. West was called on the carpet because of his investigation of alleged wire-tapping. It was reported that he had accused his colleague, E. K. Bulew, newly appointed First Assistant Secretary of the Interior, of tapping the wires of high Interior Department officials.

Ickes called this a lie. When he gets going, Ickes has the wickedest tongue in Washington. He can swear General Hugh Johnson completely under the table. After he finished with Charley West, the latter moved the official parking place for his car—which was next to Ickes—so there would be no danger of meeting his boss.

Also he indicated that he would exit from the Interior Department as soon as he could find the right job.

Job Hunt

First job West examined was that of C. F. Hosford, Chairman of the Bituminous Coal Commission. Hosford is retiring shortly, and the President is anxious to find a good man to head this Commission, which has been one of the most sloppily organized in the Government.

However, no two commissioners can serve from the same State, and Ohio (West's home State) already is represented by Commissioner Tetlow.

Latest report is that West is now in line for a job on the Maritime Commission, from which Joe Kennedy is resigning. Only difficulty here is that the President wants to keep Charley as his chief messenger boy on Capitol Hill, therefore doesn't want him to take a job that will work him too hard. And the Maritime Commission requires plenty of work.

West is sure to be one of the six new White House secretaries, if and when Congress authorizes them. But until then he very much needs a new official title—and salary. For the atmosphere around the Interior Department is awfully frigid.

Wallace's Nudes

Secretary Wallace always has been a bit sensitive about the huge painting which greets the visitor trudging up the main stairway of his Department of Agriculture.

Depicting semi-nude men and women lounging around a beautiful field, the portrait did not quite suit Henry's slightly puritanical tastes. Also he didn't want the farmers to think that he was spending the taxpayer's money on that sort of thing. So he tacked a little brass plate on the painting making clear that its purchase was undertaken by Andrew W. Mellon.

Under the portrait also is this Latin inscription: "O fortunatos nimium, sua si bona norint, agricolas."

During a recent press conference which touched upon certain farm ills, someone asked the Secretary for a translation of the inscription. "The farmers would stop belly-aching," shot back Wallace, "if they knew how happy they were."

Note—Correct translation of the Latin is: "O farmers all too happy, if they knew their own blessings."

Another Try?

Justice Department authorities are secretly considering another anti-trust indictment move against the Big Three Motor companies—Ford, Chrysler and General Motors.

Their last effort was abruptly terminated in Milwaukee several weeks ago by Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger, who dismissed a grand jury over the vehement protests of Special Prosecutor Hardy just as it was about to vote indictments.

Geiger threw out the case on the ground that the Justice Department secretly had attempted an out-of-court "consent decree" settlement with the three motor companies. Immediately Attorney General Cummings called Geiger's unprecedented action "unfair, biased and unjustified" and asked the House Judiciary Committee to investigate.

Now the Justice Department proposes a new suit before a grand jury in a different city and before a different judge.

Pending final decision, however, the Department is making an exhaustive investigation of Geiger's record in preparation for an aggressive attack against him before the House committee. There is talk of impeachment.

Judge Geiger is noted for his severity against unions, has handed down five decisions against the National Labor Board—everyone of which was overruled by a higher court.

Note—Judge Geiger was appointed by Taft in 1912.

Women Voters

In the opinion of Mrs. Roosevelt, women do not have to justify their right to vote.

Answering a query from Mrs. Frank Dowd of Indianapolis, "Do you think that women have made the most of their opportunities as voters and have justified their being given the ballot?" Mrs. Roosevelt sent this reply:

"I think women have justified their being given the ballot. It never seemed to me necessary for them to justify it, inasmuch as men did not have to justify their use of the ballot, and from my point of view the suffrage is an equal right enjoyed by human beings until they prove themselves unfit to use it properly. On the whole I think women have proved themselves as intelligent voters as the men have, remembering, of course, the fact that they were barred from this right for so many years."

MEDICINE TO ALLAY YOUR COLD

The use of local medicines for gargling and irrigation of the nose, and local applications in acute inflammation of the nose and throat, is probably second in importance to bed rest in the treatment of these conditions.

A great deal of their efficacy, however, depends on in what stage in the course of the disease they are used and in what conditions. The chapter on the common cold in the latest textbook on medicine (Cecil, fourth edition) says that in the early stage of the common cold a silver nitrate application to the throat results in a great deal of relief, but that the nose should not be touched in the acute stage. If this is true, it is a good thing, for most medication for the common cold is self-medication, and nobody can make applications to his own nose.

So far as silver nitrate applications to the throat are concerned, I would like to warn everybody that while they may shorten the course of the disease, they certainly are very uncomfortable, and even painful, for some hours after the application is made.

When the secondary stage of the common cold occurs, with profuse mucous discharge, cough and expectoration, gargling and irrigation of the nose are quite in order. In my opinion, the heat of the solution is more important than the nature of it, and the best is ordinary salt solution in water, snuffed up the nose from the palm of the hand, as hot as can be borne. This dislodges mucus and relieves congestion. Its only purpose is to make the patient more comfortable.

Oil Spray Soothing

Some people prefer spraying with the commonly used nasal oils which contain liquid petrolatum, eucalyptol, mentol, camphor or thymol, and they undoubtedly are soothing, and after they have been in place a while they help to dislodge mucus and infectious secretions.

Chronic nose and sinus infection can be treated in much the same way, probably the best solution being 1 per cent menthol and camphor in liquid petrolatum. In chronic cases with crusts, hydrogen peroxide is useful in loosening the crusts preliminary to their removal by irrigation. Tampons of cotton moistened with peroxide are also useful in this way and in controlling nose bleed.

Sore throat, especially in children, should never be allowed to go on unless someone acquainted with the appearance of diphtheria has made an examination. For ordinary sore throat infections and the beginning of bronchitis, in both of which an annoying cough may irritate and interfere with sleep, the old remedy of lozenges is not used sufficiently. Probably the most good they do is from the sugar content, but those which contain a small amount of menthol or camphor are soothing, and a box should be kept at the side of the bed at night so that they can be used if the patient is awakened by coughing.

The subject of gargling is a large one, which will be taken up tomorrow.

Poems That Live

SLEEP

From "The Woman-Hater"
Come, Sleep, and with thy sweet deceiving
Lock me in delight awhile;
Let some pleasing dreams beguile
All my fancies; that from thence
I may feel an influence
All my powers of care bereaving.

Though but a shadow, but a sliding,
Let me know some little joy!
We that suffer long annoy
Are contented with a thought
Through an idle fancy wrought:
O let my joys have some abiding!
—John Fletcher.

THE CRUST OF BREAD

I must not throw upon the floor
The crust I cannot eat;
For many little hungry ones
Would think it quite a treat.

My parents labor very hard
To get me wholesome food;
Then I must never waste a bit
That would do others good.

For willful waste makes woeful want,
And I may live to say,
Oh! how I wish I had the bread
That once I threw away!

CHAPTER 48

PRESENTLY an elderly woman came into the solicitor's office, and after a word with the clerk, joined Tim on the bench. She soon began fretting and showing signs of impatience.

At 10 past 10 a heavily built man with a black mustache burst in as if he had heard there was a fire, barked out to the lady on the bench, "Morning, Miss Jupp, won't keep you a moment," shot a swift glance at Tim, and vanished into a private office. In a few minutes the clerk called the elderly lady away, and for 40 minutes nothing further happened. Tim smoked three more cigarettes, making a mess of the floor; there were no ash trays.

But the lady came out at last, and a little later the clerk approached Tim. "Mr. Kay will see you now, sir," he said, and led Tim through.

Mr. Kay had Adams' note in his hand. "You're Mr. T. J. Kennedy, I take it," he said briskly. He put Tim into a chair and gave him a cigarette. As he held his pocket lighter to it, he gave him a rather curious glance.

"You a friend of Mr. Adams'?" he said.

"Tim's employer," Tim replied. "Oh... Has he been in your service a long time?"

"About 15 years."

"Good servant?"

"Excellent." Tim stirred uneasily. "I needn't keep you, Mr. Kay... It's only a question of this letter. I told him I was coming to London today, and he asked me to collect it."

"So I see... You don't happen to know what's in it?"

"I haven't the slightest idea." "Nor have I... Reason I asked, he made such a fuss about it the other day, I was surprised he wanted it again so soon. We don't know much about him; haven't seen him since that case seven years ago or so... I suppose you know all about that?"

Tim hedged. "I don't know the details... I know he got into trouble, but I didn't care to press him about it... He saved my life in the war, you know."

"That explains things... It was larceny, actually. We got him off, but he was damned lucky."

Tim did recall an occasion when Adams, who had been on holiday, wrote from London asking for an extension of leave of absence. There had been an excuse about a dying relative, and Adams had returned in a chastened mood which Tim had attributed to grief.

According to his custom, he had asked no questions.

"I shouldn't be telling you about this," said Mr. Kay, "and I'm sure you'll regard it as confidential. But to tell the truth I haven't been happy about this secret document-to-be-opened-after-my-death film stuff. Specially with a man whose record was messy. It was my partner, Mr. Major, who saw him this time—I wouldn't have handled it without an explanation. However, I'll be glad to let you have it."

He rang a bell, and the young Jew came in. "Just rout out that Adams envelope and bring it to me, Davis," said Mr. Kay.

"I think Mr. Major's got it, sir," said Davis.

"Just come, sir."

"Well, ask him... Here, give him this note."

There was a pause. Mr. Kay drummed on the desk with his fingers. "Hope you'll forget what I mentioned just now," he said abruptly. "I've really no reason to believe Adams isn't running straight. You ought to know better than I. But I wouldn't like to have anything I've said prejudices you against him."

"Of course not," Tim answered. "I know Adams isn't all he should be, but so long as he's under my

"Then you'll give me the envelope?"

"I know he's all right."

There was another silence. It was broken by the entry of a bald, elderly man in a state of some excitement.

He went up to Mr. Kay, and said a few words to him in a low voice. "Good heavens!" said Mr. Kay. He turned to Tim. "Adams is dead."

"Dead?" echoed Tim, fighting for control.

It was Mr. Major who answered. He held out a newspaper to Tim, and pointed to a paragraph. "That's him, isn't it?"

It was only two lines, headed the caption "Darts Player Killed" ... M. Adams ... cycle accident ... West Shilston.

"Good Lord!" Tim struggled. "I'd no idea... But that's not my servant Adams; it must be his brother. His brother lived in West Shilston too."

"Same initial."

"Yes... Martin. My man is Merivale. He's all right, he gave me that note this morning."

"You saw him this morning, and he said nothing about his brother's death?"

FROM PAINFUL
BACKACHE

Caused by Tired Kidneys

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Fletcher Valentine knows tobacco values...like so many other independent experts he smokes Luckies!

"I've bought 4,000,000 pounds of tobacco at auctions in the past ten years," says Mr. Valentine, independent buyer of Westfield, N. C., "and my bread and butter depends on making the right bids. That's why I have to know tobacco values."

"Now I've smoked Luckies ever since 1918, and the reason is, they suit my taste to a 'T'. Nobody knows better than we tobacco men that Luckies are made of the finest center-leaf tobacco."

Yes—and that isn't all...Luckies' exclusive process, "It's Toasted" takes out certain irritants naturally present in all tobacco—even the finest! The result is that you will find Luckies not only taste good but are easy on your throat.

Surely, independent experts like Mr. Valentine make good judges of cigarettes...Sworn records show that, among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice as many exclusive smokers as have all other cigarettes combined!

Bad breath is death to romance. And bad breath is frequently caused by constipation. Just as headaches, sleeplessness, weakness can be produced by it, or most skin blemishes aggravated by it.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, during his years of practice, treated hundreds of women for constipation and frequently noted that relief sweetened the breath and improved well-being and vitality. For his treatment he used a purely vegetable compound—Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This laxative is gentle, yet peculiarly effective because it increases the bile flow without shocking the intestinal system.

The news that he had come to the end of his "long, long trail," a phrase used on a great bronze plaque to him in New York City, brought the tolling of bells all over the world.

Nobody ever just liked him:

Some skin troubles are tough to correct, but we do know this—skin tissues like the body itself must be fed from within.

To make the food we eat available for strength and energy, there must be an abundance of red-blood-cells. S.S.S. Tonic builds these precious red cells. It is a simple, internal remedy, tested for generations and also proven by scientific research.

You, too, will want to take S.S.S. Tonic to regain and to maintain your red-blood-cells... to restore lost weight... to regain energy... to strengthen nerves... and to give to your skin that natural health glow.

Take the S.S.S. Tonic treatment and shortly you should be delighted with the way you feel... and have your friends compliment you on the way you look. Available at any drug store.

Fruited Johnny Cake With Marshmallows Attractive January Dessert

Luscious Tidbits Make Gorgeous Dessert of "Lowly" Cornbread

Johnny Cake With an Upside-Down Apple Filling and Toasty Marshmallow Topping Sets Pace for 1938 Desserts.

Johnny Cake it is, but what a Johnny Cake! No, it's not the usual type of cornbread which requires the supplementary support of meat, vegetables, and salad, but a revolutionized variety that can stand alone—as a fitting climax to the most festive meal! Thus, 1938 finds an old, old favorite spreading its delectable influence into the realm of dessert-dom, going by the name of Marshmallow Johnny Cake.

In becoming the type of dessert that you will want to serve at parties and company gatherings, Johnny Cake has necessarily enlisted the aid of other ingredients—such inexpensive necessities as brown sugar, molasses, spices, and apple sauce have been added to pique the flavor of this tender hot bread and make it, by some magical means, tumble out of the pan with a spicy, fruity layer on the bottom.

Having progressed thus far toward dessert fame, our Johnny Cake needed but one final touch in order to step to the top. And that final touch happened to be a topping of toasted marshmallows which, fortunately, can always be conveniently and economically obtained.

And that, miladies, is a bit of the short history of Marshmallow Johnny Cake. To prove to yourselves that it is gorgeous to look at, delectable to eat, and easy to make, try this recipe.

Marshmallow Johnny Cake (Serves 9)

- 1 cup cornmeal
- 1 cup cake flour
- ¼ teaspoon soda
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup sour milk
- ½ cup molasses
- 2 tablespoons butter (melted)
- 1 egg (beaten)
- 1 cup apple sauce
- ¼ cup brown sugar
- 2 tablespoon cinnamon
- 9 marshmallows

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Combine sour milk, molasses, melted butter, and beaten egg. Add to first mixture, stirring just enough to blend. Pour half of batter into buttered square pan and spread with a mixture of the apple sauce, brown sugar, and cinnamon. Pour over remaining batter and bake in a moderately hot oven (375°) for approximately 30 minutes. When cool, cut in squares and top each serving with one marshmallow, which has been cut in half. Then place in oven or under broiler until marshmallows are puffed and golden brown. Serve at once.

a half miles. In 1928 at Roby Speedway, Chicago, he won a 20-mile race, took the blue ribbon in a five-mile race and placed second in a third race. Three years later on the same speedway in a six race card he won three of the events and took second in a fourth. Whether it is derby racing or sprinting, Driver Shaw has what it takes.

One of the first lessons Speedway Racer Shaw learned was to protect his health. He says, "Quaker Oats has the stuff it takes to build the stamina and nerve our game requires."

Advertisement Correction!
In Morton's Market advertisement in the Democrat Wednesday, 10 lbs. of Karo 49c, either color, with a pound of 19c coffee, was incorrectly stated. The price on Karo is 49c and can be secured without the coffee purchase. The advertisement should have read ten pounds of granulated sugar 52c with the purchase of 1 lb. of 19c coffee.

Browned servings of tender veal, rich savory brown gravy, with whole vegetables cooked in the meat juices—that is a Brown Veal Stew. For the meat, order chuck, neck, or breast veal. Cut into servings and brown well in butter. Season and add a small portion of water. The trick is in the simmering gently until tender. Boiling is too harsh a treatment for tender, delicate veal.

of the cook stove. For the younger cook, the pot may be a beautifully made glass, enamel, aluminum or stainless steel kettle, which is designed to fit the modern stove and to do an efficient job of long, slow cooking, that is so essential in producing the perfect pot roast. In fact, it is only in the south that one sees a variety of the once popular iron pots.

Again, prepared vegetables may be cooked in the "pot" for the last half hour or so. These add flavor to the gravy and, in turn, acquire the rich meaty flavor and browned color which is most appetizing.

There are other interesting additions to the basic recipe that may be used from time to time, i. e., brown 2 sliced onions in with the meat and add a few cloves, a bay leaf, a stick of cinnamon, and

SUNDAY DINNER Suggestions

By ANN PAGE

CHEAPER meats, cheaper butter, inexpensive fruits and vegetables characterize early January markets. Beef, lamb and fresh pork cuts are all reasonable. Butter prices have continued to drop and eggs are again lower. Oranges, both navel and juice, grapefruit and apples are among the most attractive fruit values. Lettuce, other salad greens and fresh tomatoes are inexpensive. Potatoes are a cheap food as well as a most nourishing one. Seasonable foods make up the following menus:

Low Cost Dinner
Chopped Beef and Pork Roast
Mashed Potatoes
Creamed Diced Turnips
Bread and Butter
Apple Crisp
Tea or Coffee Milk

Medium Cost Dinner
Pot Roast of Beef with Tomato Gravy
Potatoes
Glazed Celery and Onions
Bread and Butter
Coconut Custard Pie
Tea or Coffee Milk

Very Special Dinner
Grapefruit
Roast Loin of Pork with Cinnamon Apples
Sweet Potatoes New Cabbage
Tomato Salad
Bread and Butter
Ice Cream Cake

PLIGHT EASED FOR FOURTEEN IN VAULT

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Modern conveniences and the solicitude of two gunmen eased the plight of 14 persons locked in a vault during a robbery yesterday.

The gunmen took $1,456 from the cash drawers at the Tower Finance company and forced eight men and six girl employees into the vault. Fearing their victims would suffocate, the robbers tipped a Negro clerk $2 to call the police.

The tip was wasted. A ventilating system eliminated the danger of suffocation. A hidden telephone provided communication.

FORECASTS ON STATE AFFAIRS FOR THIS YEAR

Some of Things Anticipated In Activities at The Capitol

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 6.—(AP)—As Missouri's ship of state goes sailing through 1938, what will the headlines be?

Year-end reviews will tell, but to those who desire not to wait twelve months, here's what you'll probably read:

General revenue hits new record high as collections mount to approximately $42,000,000, against $37,305,545 for 1937 . . . with 2 per cent sales tax in operation throughout the year, receipts reach $22,000,000, an increase of $5,000,000 over last year when 1 per cent levy was in effect until June 8 . . . farewell to "milk bottle" cap tokens.

Old age pensions hiked to average of $18 to $20 a month by spring, possibly sooner . . . rolls reduced 65,000 to 70,000.

With patronage problems behind, Governor Lloyd C. Stark settles down to more-or-less routine business of running state . . . Aided by Attorney General Roy McKeltrick, executive unrelents in campaign against "loan sharks," just as the two once drove slot machines to cover.

No special session of the legislature (barring some catastrophe, of course), but solons prepare for 1939 session. . . . Demands that lawmakers be convened subsidize, as needy over 70 shifted from direct relief to old age assistance.

United States Senator Bennett C. Clark, State Superintendent of Schools Lloyd W. King, and Supreme Court Judges William F. Frank and James M. Douglas in campaign for re-election . . . The winners—well, we'll let you guess (we'll verify it after the votes are counted Nov. 8).

Collect For Compensation Unemployment compensation commission collects upwards of $11,000,000 with 1.8 per cent tax on 1937 payrolls . . . starts collecting 2.7 per cent tax on 1938 by quarters, beginning April 1.

Referendum on 3-cent state gasoline tax among "hot" campaign issues . . . citizens road association formulates new highway program.

Age-worn fire insurance controversy centers around probable supreme court decisions on whether attorneys' fees justifiable.

Seven story state office building, costing $850,000, rises across from capitol just west of supreme court building. . . $400,000 state cancer hospital constructed at Columbia.

Rehabilitation program for the state eleemosynary and penal institutions, financed with $10,000,000 bond issue and nearly $7,000,000 in PWA grants, virtually completed. . . new "outgoing" penitentiary for 600 convicts built on prison farm eight miles northwest of here.

Strength of T. J. Pendergast, Kansas City Democratic "boss," tested in municipal election there in March. . . . Results may reflect possible trend in general statewide election.

State highway patrol's network of radio stations at Poplar Bluff, Springfield, Macon, Kirkwood, Lees Summit and Jefferson City completed.

SCRUTINY FOR ANY NOMINEE TO THE SUPREME COURT

Numerous Persons Mentioned as Possible Choice To Bench

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Senators commenting on the retirement from the supreme court of Justice George Sutherland emphasized two points today:

1. That President's Roosevelt's nominee to fill the vacancy will be subjected to careful senatorial scrutiny.

2. That the prospect of a definite "liberal" majority on the court showed far into the background any possibility of reviving the president's judiciary reorganization bill.

Senator Bridges (R-NH) already has proposed that senate hearings be required on supreme court nominations, and was expected to seek approval of such a rule before a nomination is submitted.

Senator Copeland (D-NY), who first asserted Justice Hugo L. Black had been a Ku Klux Klansman, said any nominee would be "closely scrutinized."

Speculation over a successor to the 75-year old Justice Sutherland, who asked to step down from the bench Jan. 18 because of his age, found most senators in agreement that a "liberal" would be proposed. Four present justices—Brandeis, Stone, Cardozo and Black—have been so classified by administration officials.

Thus, senators argued, a majority of the court could be expected to favor Roosevelt legislation, nullifying any further demand of administration leaders for a change in the judicial setup.

Situation Changed Senator Logan (D-Ky) commented that the "general court situation, as it existed last year, has already been changed" by administration victories in important cases and by the earlier retirement of Justice Willis Van Devanter.

"I think that relieved any necessity for reviving the matter (the reorganization bill)," he said. Mr. Roosevelt has given no indication that he intended to renew a campaign for the legislature.

Many names were mentioned in speculation over candidates to succeed Justice Sutherland, but all were pure guesses.

Heading the list was Solicitor General Stanley Reed, prominently mentioned for the vacancy to which Justice Black was named last summer.

Others high in the speculative list were Senators Minton (D-Ind) and Schwelbach (D-Wash); former Senator Sam G. Bratton of New Mexico, now a federal circuit judge; Gov. Philip F. La Follette of Wisconsin, and Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan.

Most senators said Reed or Bratton would be easily confirmed, if nominated. Minton and Schwelbach are senators, but in view of the Black controversy, it was doubtful whether that fact would expedite their consideration.

Several senators said there probably would be some opposition to LaFollette or Murphy. The former is not a Democrat, but a member of the Progressive party.

There were forecasts that the president would select a western man. The court now is overloaded with easterners, and Mr. Roosevelt's only previous nomination—Justice Black—was from the south.

KEWPIES PLAY S-C TEAM TONIGHT

The Smith-Cotton Tigers basketball team will see two veteran players back in the lineup tonight against the Columbia Kewpies. The start of the game will find Bob Alpert at center and Paul Meyers at guard. Both boys have been out of the game until this week suffering from injuries.

Alpert has a bad ankle while Meyers had an infected thumb. However, Coach Davenport believes the boys are in fair condition to begin the affair with the Kewpies, but they will probably be in for only part of the contest.

The remainder of the lineup: Hayes at forward, Agniel and Kurtz at guard position.

Columbia was stung with its first defeat of the season Wednesday night when Clinton high school players buzzed around and stung out a close margin win of 25 to 24 at Clinton.

The game tonight starts promptly at 7:45 o'clock. Clarence Whiteman is the referee.

ALBERT B. FALL FEELS HE WILL NOT LIVE LONG

EL PASO, Tex., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Albert B. Fall, gaunt of face and hair bleached a snowy white, gazed upon life today with bitter resignation.

"I'll never get out of bed—I haven't long to live," he said in one of his rare interviews at William Beaumont general hospital.

Prison, illness and trouble have been Fall's lot since the October day of 1924 when the United States supreme court set aside his lease of the Teapot Dome naval oil reserve to Harry F. Sinclair, and branded him a "faithless public servant."

The former secretary of the interior enters 1938 actually in better health than he has experienced in several years.

Yet the fire of the once lusty political leader long since has died—only the black cigars, which distinguished him in the United States senate, remind of other days.

His long thin hair and drooping mustache are as white as the sheets of the bed to which he has been destined the past decade. His face, once strong and tanned by a life under the southwestern sun, is pallid and frosted with a snowy stubble.

He is 76, yet looks far older.

Says Debt Is Paid Fall still clings bitterly to his assertion that the $100,000 paid him in the Teapot Dome case was a loan, not a bribe.

"I've paid my debt to society. I owe it nothing now," he said. To Mrs. Fall, tall and militant, falls the family's battle against the accusation made against her husband by a nation. She and her daughter live in their El Paso home, which Mrs. Fall says the government is attempting to seize for alleged non-payment of income taxes in 1923.

"I guess the government will bound us to the grave," she said. In contrast to Fall's monastic life, she appears often in public. Fall said he preferred to remain in the army hospital, not only because of its protecting seclusion, but because he is "broke" and can obtain free medical care. His service in the Spanish-American war entitles him to that.

Since a nearly fatal attack of pneumonia three years ago, Fall has turned to the Roman Catholic faith for solace—a strange conversion to his old neighbors, who knew him as the grandson of one of the founders of the Disciples of Christ.

Not so to Mrs. Fall, who explained simply: "Only the Catholic fathers visited him at the hospital. None of the other preachers came around him."

SEDALIANS TO FURNITURE MART Philip McLaughlin has gone to Chicago to attend the American Furniture Mart, and will be joined Friday by John C. McLaughlin, both representing the firm of McLaughlin Bros. Furniture Co., Sedalia.

While there the two will select the 1938 styles in home furnishings shown by more than 850 manufacturers from all sections of the country. Then thousands of buyers are expected to attend the two weeks mart.

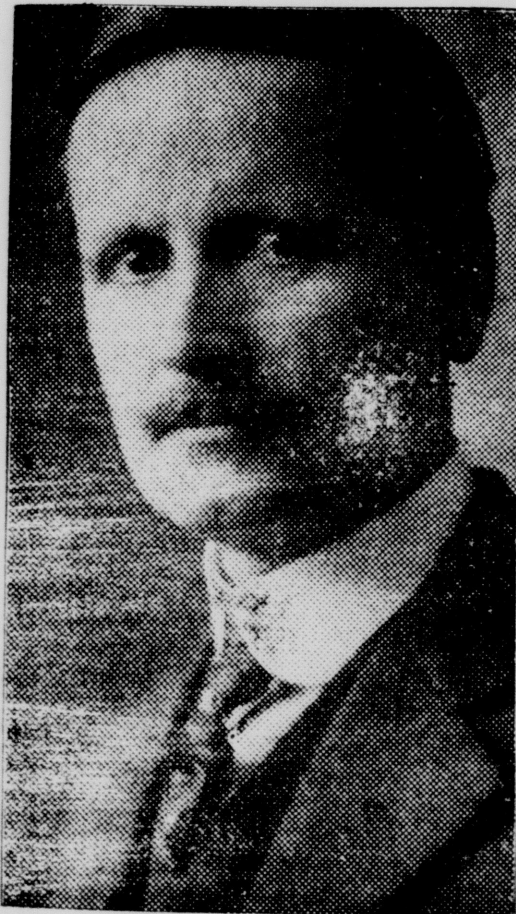

The modern influence will govern the styling of many 1938 models. Taking their inspiration from the streamlining of automobiles, whose manufacturers are now building kitchen equipment including stoves, refrigerators, washers, ironers, etc., the entire home is expected to follow the example of the streamlined kitchen.

"Assurance" Is Need Declares W. S. Knudson

himself a car under such circumstances."

While Knudson was testifying the White House announced that he and John D. Biggers, director of the recently made unemployment census, would talk with President Roosevelt.

On the stand Knudson declined to approve, as far as its effect on the automotive industry was concerned, Mr. Roosevelt's current suggestion for planned industrial production as a way of keeping the level of employment reasonably steady.

No Way To Forecast Drop

The General Motors chief said he knew no way to forecast a sudden sales drop such as that of November and December.

Citing the President's informally discussed proposal for gearing production to consumption estimates made six months or a year in advance, Committee Chairman Byrnes (D., S. C.), asked whether it would be possible for the motor industry to cooperate with government officials in estimating purchasing power for forecasting car sales.

"I don't think there is a way in God's world to forecast a 50 per cent drop in business in three weeks, such as we had in December," Knudson replied.

Knudson disclosed for the first time that General Motors share earnings amounted to $4.48 for 1937, compared with $5.35 in 1936.

He said General Motors tax bill increased $5,000,000 in 1937 to $76,140,000, exclusive of the automobile excise tax.

As to the prospect for an early upturn in business and an end to the recession Knudson expressed optimism, saying the trend should be upward in the spring.

"Temporary Recession"

"I believe it is only a temporary recession," he said, "I have said so all along. I look for recovery and we are making our plans accordingly."

Talking of lack of confidence as a recessive influence, Byrnes asked "when General Motors lays off 30,000 men, what effect does that have on confidence?"

He followed this with another query as to whether General Motors had considered drawing on his holdings of $211,000,000 in cash and government securities rather than cut off workers. He said the sum would have kept the entire force working for six months.

"I'd rather write an answer to that when I have time to think it over," Knudson responded but later elaborated. "I always want to keep the men working, but constant employment never can be assured unless there is work to do."

He said the only thing the company could do when work declined was to spread the work.

Refers To Car Sales

Senator Clark (D., Mo.), discussing the General Motors lay-off, told Knudson "nothing could have more effect on the feeling of the country than to see one of the biggest corporations have so little confidence in the future that it lays off 30,000 men."

Knudson replied that "the only way we can say whether business is good or bad is whether we sell more, or less cars."

Senator Lodge (R., Mass.), inquired, "doesn't the attitude of the government have profound effect on any psychology of fear?"

"Yes sir," Knudson answered. "Then what would you have the government do?" asked Byrnes.

There was a long pause as Knudson drank a glass of water. Chuckles spread through the committee room.

Finally Knudson replied he did not know what the government should do.

Knudson asserted manufacturing costs rose sharply during 1937, with labor rates increasing 25 per cent and material prices swinging steeply upward.

"The over-all increase in car costs amounted to 13.3 per cent in 1937," he said. "General Motors elected to carry this burden without increasing prices, until the period of August to October, 1937, when price increases of 8.5 per cent were put in force on all cars."

Discussing labor problems, he told the committee that "shop efficiency suffered in the first half of 1937 to a considerable extent through strikes and unauthorized stoppages, the actual man-hour loss being about 40,000,000."

He added, however, that manufacturing efficiency has "shown considerable improvement" since new models were announced.

Strikes now have stopped, Knudson said, "and labor relations are much improved."

"The corporation's policy," he said, "is to keep the maximum number of people working consistent with the demand for its product."

"Sharing of work is practiced down as far as 24 hours per week, when demand is low, and 40 hours per week is the standard work week when demand is normal."

"The corporation employs no child labor."

At one point Knudson complained amiably that he could not see because of photographers' flashing bulbs and Chairman Byrnes (D., S. C.), asked the photo men to complete their work.

"Make a gesture," one photographer requested the motor magnate, seeking an "action" shot.

"A friendly gesture," put in Byrnes.

Laughing, Knudson raised his hand in informal salute.

Outlines Causes

Outlines causes which led to the reduction in General Motors' working force, Knudson told the committee:

"The present situation, necessitating a reduction in the working force, is about as follows:

"Sales in 1937 were excellent both on new and used cars, and despite the handicap of the strikes were at a point where it looked as if 1936 figures would be reached or bettered."

"Consequently, the factory schedules were set to equal the last quarter of 1936 and employment arranged accordingly on a forty-hour week basis."

"October and November retail deliveries in the United States were 225,109 new General Motors cars against 199,630 in 1936 and 379,657 used cars against 357,124 in 1936. During the last 10-day period in November, however, a severe drop in sales of both new and used cars took place. In fact, the total dropped to 70 per cent of 1936."

"We still hoped that this would be the low point and expected to keep the men working, on shortened hours, but when the second period in December showed a drop to 45 per cent of 1936, it became necessary to adjust the working force, which was done by retaining all the men we could take care of on a twenty-four hour (per week) basis, and laying off the balance."

"In order to avoid misunderstandings by the men and the public generally, a statement was issued by the corporation under date of December 28, setting forth the reason for the adjustment."

Chinese Massing Man-Power To Defy Japanese

Chinese airplanes had raided Hankow for the second time this week. Twenty bombers escorted by fighting craft were said to have attacked the airfield and broadcasting station.

The Chinese government reorganization included establishment of six new boards and enlargement of the advisory council for national defense to a membership of 75.

Chinese officials insist that Shanghai rumors that former Communist leaders now play an important part in the government were false.

The six new war boards are to devote their time to military operations, administration and training, military justice, and transportation.

Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek's air force (which persistent reports have said was being strengthened with Soviet planes and pilots) was active again. The government announced that Chinese bombers had ruined the Japanese airfield at Wuhu and demolished six Japanese planes.

Embezzlement Charge Is Filed Against Tom E. Dugan

trial. "Am I under arrest?" he asked. They assured him he was not. "I feel better then," he said.

After some preliminary questions in the Kansas City office Dugan admitted his guilt, and sitting down at a typewriter composed and typed the statement which he gave to the officers.

"I know I have done wrong," he said, "and I must pay," and upon his return to Sedalia as he entered the county jail said: "Those who dance must pay the fiddler."

To the officers he stated, as in the confession, that he had taken the first $300 in June, 1936, soon after he started his third term of office, to purchase an insurance business which he operated with Samuel R. Sprecher. They purchased the Ewen Insurance Company, which they later merged with the Real Estate Loan and Insurance Agency, Inc., and he had plans to carry on this business after this term of office and assure himself a comfortable living in the future.

After the first $300 was taken, which he fully intended to pay back, other amounts were taken from time to time, not for his personal use, he said, but for business purposes, and the sums amounted until they had reached several thousand dollars, which he knew he had no way of repaying.

Salary and Bond

The salary of the city collector in Sedalia is $100 a month, and with additional fees, the total compensation amounts to approximately $125 a month. Such an officer must be bonded in the amount of $20,000 and Dugan's was signed by his father, E. W. Dugan, his brother, George Dugan, H. W. Mason and Dr. C. A. McNeil.

Dugan Remorseful

At the county jail this morning Dugan greeted a reporter with a smile and tears. "You know I'm not a thief at heart," he said, "and I think everyone who knows me, knows that. I feel much more relieved today than I have for many months."

"I know no one believed that story of the slugging and robbery," he continued. "I know human nature and I can read faces."

It was not until about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, he said, that he conceived the idea of a hoax.

Reaction Over Estimates In The U. S. Budget

yet ready to be quoted by name, also said they would oppose the President's request for power to veto individual items in appropriation bills. They characterized it as an invasion of congressional authority over appropriations.

Complaints about the proposal to fix next year's relief expenditures at $1,000,000,000, compared to this year's total of $1,500,000,000, came from Senators La Follette (Prog-Wis) and Schellenbach (D-Wash).

Schellenbach, who told the senate yesterday he would seek early action on his resolution to require that WPA give work to anyone unable to find private employment, said he would confer soon with Mr. Roosevelt on the relief situation.

The Washington senator contended that WPA officials were unable to meet the present relief burden under an amendment requiring them to make the $1,500,000,000 fund last until next June 30.

Some farm senators protested against holding 1939 soil conservation funds to $440,000,000—the amount allotted for this year—but Chairman Jones (D-Tex) of the house agriculture committee expressed pleasure the amount had not been cut below that figure.

Many Approve Slash

Many legislators voiced approval of Mr. Roosevelt's proposal to cut $539,000,000 in total expenditures, even though some of them criticized specific curtailments.

Senator King (D-Utah), long a critic of heavy spending, commended "the temper in which the President admonished us to be rational in expenditures" and said that "by and large it was a good message."

Republicans in both senate and house criticized the budget, although Rep. Knutson (R-Minn) said Mr. Roosevelt "deserves full cooperation of congress in any effort he makes to bring federal expenditures somewhere near receipts."

Republican Leader McNary of the senate said it was "regrettable" that the President found it impossible to balance the budget.

The deficit, under the figures submitted, would amount to $949,606,000.

House leaders, with the budget before them, cleared the way for immediate consideration of the appropriations bills carrying out its provisions. They decided to consider this afternoon the bill supplying funds for independent federal agencies, and expressed hope it would pass this week.

The senate, by an agreement reached during the special session, took up the controversial anti-lynching bill. Administration leaders were concerned lest southern opponents start a filibuster that might delay consideration of the entire Roosevelt program.

The first item on that program—crop control legislation—still was before a senate-house conference committee, which was discussing the troublesome problem of large farm benefit payments to extensive land owners.

A Vassar Gesture Protesting Jap Militarism

A huge anti-Japanese bonfire which marked the third annual convention at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., of the American Student Union, was fed in part by the silk stockings these young ladies are donning. Neckties and shirts of silk made in Japan joined the hosiery in feeding the flames of the anti-Jap boycott. (Central Press)

SUIT IN ATTACHMENT FOR MONEY IS FILED

An attachment suit was filed in the circuit court by Verde Stephens Hoerman against George Hoerman, asking the court to attach money which the defendant has, she alleged, in a Smithton bank.

The petition alleges they were married in August, 1937 and that defendant persuaded her to leave her home in Pomona, Calif., and return to Missouri to visit her parents. Since coming to Missouri, she alleges he had published in the Democrat a notice that he would not be responsible for her debts. She claims that he has property in California and in Pettis county, and money in the Smithton bank, and that he has notified the bank to not let her have this money. She alleges that he owes her $300, for which she is asking.

GALLANT TONY GALENTO GIVES A BEER PARTY

After Knocking Out Massera Adoring Towns-men Cheer

(By GAYLE TALBOT)

ORANGE, N. J., Jan. 6.—(AP)—The gallant Tony sleeps soundly today, surfeited with the cheers of his adoring townsfolk and loaded with good Galento beer.

Last night the gallant Galento leapt forward nimbly as a sperm whale, swished his mighty left onto the beckoning jaw of Charley Massera of Pittsburgh, and the crowd of 6,300 was half way out of the armory before they brought Charley around.

Seldom was there a much bigger night in Orange, take it as a whole. The knockout of Massera in the third round was almost incidental. Everybody knew Tony was going to do that as soon as he shook down his afternoon load of spaghetti. The real excitement was afterward, when Two-Ton Tony held open house.

It took Tony and four fast assistants behind the bar to keep up with the beer trade, while Mrs. Tony and all the Galento relatives laded out the spaghetti in the back room. It was an amazing night and a lucrative one for the Galentos.

"I wasn't myself tonight," volunteered Tony as he paused a moment to see for himself that the beer he was dispensing was up to the Galento standard. "Maybe I ain't been eating enough spaghetti, or maybe even I ought to cut down on the beer. But I couldn't get going against that Messera for a couple of rounds."

"I ain't myself against a second rater, anyway. Now, against a pretty good boy like Joe Louis I box good. I gotta fight a good man before I show anything."

Tony's first battle in his home town in six years left his followers more convinced than ever that he's the uncrowned champ. A New York sports writer nearly got himself a shiner some time this morning because he suggested mildly that Louis or Schmeling might possibly be able to step around the gallant Galento and dust him off.

"Don't hand me none of that," said the Galento admirer with much emphasis. "Tony will pop any of 'em with that left of his. Odderwise, wha're all of 'em dodgin' him for?"

For two rounds the veteran Massera pounded away at Tony's large middle without making a noticeable impression.

Tony waddled on in, now and then swinging his left hopefully. Massera looked discouraged, and when one of the Galento lefts finally connected he appeared to go down without a regret.

"That hittin' me in the stummick didn't hurt," said Tony some ten beers later. "I'm tough there. But I'm thinking of takin' off some of that stummick, at that. I might get myself down around 190 when I fight for the championship."

Last night he was a good, honest 218 when he went into the ring. There's no telling what he might scale today.

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—(AP)—James Joseph Dykes (the fellow hiding behind that big black cigar) is going to give those 41-year-old legs of his one more chance to hang onto third base.

For 20 years, those legs of James Joseph have been doing a lot of third basing in the American league. For season after season, he was generally regarded as the best at the job in the junior circuit.

In the last few years, however, Old Pop Time and an injured leg ligament have been cutting down on Jimmy's workable days for the Chicago White Sox, whom he manages. But Jimmy could not quit, simply because the Sox didn't have another third sacker worth the price of a worn out bat bag.

Over this winter, however, all that was changed. Although Jimmy won't admit it, he just about took the eye-teeth from his old pal, Mickey Cochrane, in a deal in which the Sox acquired Marv Owen who's a pretty good third baseman, himself.

But now that he has someone to take over the job, Jimmy said today he isn't at all sure that he's ready to hang up his glove.

"I'm going to give these legs of mine a chance to see what they can do in spring training," he admitted. "I wouldn't make any decision about my playing next season until I find out what they can do. If I feel, after the spring workout, that these legs can keep going, I'll be back in there."

Meantime, he's all set to take time off from his Philadelphia bowling alleys, to work out in a gym, for the purpose of wearing off a not very large, but somewhat annoying, circle of avoirdupois around his middle.

That done, he'll pack up and head for training camp, to give those legs their chance to stay in the lineup.

"We hate to see you go, Jimmy," said his listener, "but just get those cigars out of here, we're glad you're leaving."

NEW BASKETBALL BALL RULES HELP LITTLE FELLOWS

Coaches Freely Give Views on Center-Jumpless Game

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Profound opinions about the new basketball rules have come from scores of coaches whose "mental anguish" must leave them physical wrecks at the close of a season and from grandstand and press box experts who "see all-know all-tell all"—but how about the boys in the trenches?

How about the fellows who have the actual job of producing field goals? How do they feel about it all?

Take Tiny Jerry Steiner, five feet, seven inches of basketball dynamite, leading scorer and spark plug for a Butler university team that has won seven of its first eight games, defeating such outfits as Michigan, Pittsburgh and Northwestern.

"I like it," was Steiner's verdict on the center-jumpless game. Then he grinned and added, "It gives me an edge."

"The new rules have put little guys like me back in the ball game," he said.

"Of course, the game is some faster, but it will slow down. There isn't any reason why teams should play fire department basketball all the time."

And now about the physical effect.

"Oh, I guess I'm a little more tired after a game now than before the rules change, but I come out of it just as fast as before," he said. "I don't see that the new game causes any more lasting fatigue."

Now to go to the other extreme. There's Bill Merrill, six foot, one inch, 190 pound center for Butler, who has had his jumping duties taken away by the new rules.

"Suits me fine," said Merrill. "In fact, it makes it easier for me."

"It takes more energy to make one center jump, particularly against a real tall opponent, than it does for a couple of dashes up and down the floor. I'm not any more tired after a game now than I was before the rules change."

The new rules permit more time for thought about offensive maneuvers under the basket, Merrill says.

"It used to be that you had to think of offensive formations around the center circle and then again under the basket," he explained. "Now you can concentrate on your offense under the basket."

Coach Ordway announced there will be a possibility of three other boys making the trip with the chosen team with a chance they will be matched after arriving at Joplin. Those boys are Dean Murray, Pete Stuart, and Cecil Landers.

The interest shown by the Sedalia Golden Gloves boxers has been exceptionally good the past week and the choosing of the team was made hard by those handling the boys, because of this interest.

The team will depart from Sedalia about 11 o'clock Friday morning in private automobiles.

The first bout will be held at 7:45 o'clock that night.

OWENS ANXIOUS FOR GLORY AGAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Jesse Owens, hero of the 1936 Olympic games, who has done all right for himself financially since reaching a parting of the ways with the Amateur Athletic Union, may run and jump for medals and glory again.

He is going to ask the A. A. U. to restore his amateur standing by lifting his suspension imposed after he declined to visit Sweden for a post-Olympic exhibition trip two summers ago. He hopes out loud that his application will be granted in time for a crack at earning a place on the team which will represent Uncle Sam in the 1940 games scheduled for Japan.

QUIET JUMPY NERVES

Sleep good. Get back lost weight.

If your stomach won't let you eat three substantial meals a day, naturally you have to draw on your reserve vitality to keep going. This soon runs out. Then you become shaky, nervous, irritable, can't sleep.

Stimulants and drugs (the first things most people think of) only make the condition worse. You must get the gastric juices to flow more freely. You do this by taking Tanlac. It soothes the disturbed will WANT to eat. Besides, Tanlac helps the liver, kidneys and bowels in working order, so they will be able to do a good job and make you feel well again.
Tanlac does this very thing. You will be rid of your biliousness, nervousness, acid indigestion and toxic headaches. You will begin putting on the extra pounds you need.
You will sleep soundly, too. Ask for Tanlac at any drug store. But get only Tanlac.
